WE'RE A BIT DIFFERENT

We're a bit different from other outdoor clothing and gear companies. Yes, we design thoughtful, quality-made products for climbing, surfing, fly fishing, snow sports, trail running and everyday life, but we're in business to accomplish a lot more than making clothing and profit. Patagonia is guided by our mission statement: "Build the best product, cause no unnecessary harm, use business to inspire and implement solutions to the environmental crisis." It's the touchstone for every decision we make.

Along with building quality and timelessness into every one of our products so they last a good long time, we source materials and use processes that are less harmful to the earth. (See below for the ones directly related to products offered in this catalog.) To us, quality is not only how well a product performs and holds up, but also how it's made.

100% TRACEABLE DOWN VERIFIED ANIMAL WELFARE

Patagonia® 100% Traceable Down provides the highest assurance of animal welfare in the apparel industry. Every down cluster, in every one of our down products, can be traced back to birds that were never live-plucked and never force-fed, so you can stay warm with a good conscience.

ORGANICALLY GROWN COTTON TAKING TOXICS OUT OF AG

Though cotton is considered a "natural" fiber, conventionally grown cotton is the world's "dirtiest" crop due to the heavy use of insecticides and synthetic fertilizer. In 1996 we switched to 100% organically grown cotton in all of our cotton products.

RECYCLED POLYESTER DISCARDS INTO FABRIC

Recognizing that recycled polyester made killer fabric and also reduced discards, pollution and the need for petroleum as a raw material, we were the first outdoor clothing company to make clothing from plastic bottles and other recyclables, beginning in 1993.

BLUESIGN® APPROVED FABRIC REDUCING WASTE & POLLUTION

Second only to farming as the largest polluter of water, the textile industry also causes air pollution and solid waste. Our bluesign® approved fabrics offer the highest level of consumer safety by employing methods and materials in their manufacture that conserve resources and minimize impacts on people and the environment.
